Hidden Valley Animal Adventure is the creation of Hans Boxler, a successful dairy farmer here in Wyoming County. Hans’ father, who was from Switzerland, traveled across the rough Atlantic on the Queen Mary’s maiden voyage to New York with the intention of settling in sunny California. On his way west, he came across the rolling hills of Varysburg, which reminded him of home, and he decided to start his dairy farm and family right here, raising three children: Hans, Gretchen and Mary.

Hans grew up with a love for animals. In 2002, he bought some bison and elk and then, eventually, a camel. People were curious and stopped to ask about the unusual animals. This is how the vision of Hidden Valley was born — a place where he could share his passion for animals and this picturesque valley with the public (not to mention to help cover the cost of feed).

Ground was broken in 2005 and five years later in 2010, Hidden Valley Animal Adventure opened.

Along with the park, the original vision included a hot dog stand to serve our guests. But the plans quickly grew into a restaurant, banquet hall and two hotel rooms housed in a beautiful timber frame lodge. Why two hotel rooms? The hotel rooms are a result of a local law dating back to the end of prohibition in 1933 that requires establishments that sell liquor have overnight lodging.

Today, the park guests enjoy a Wild Game Safari guided trolley tour over 2 miles of trails on 63 acres of land. Each guest receives a cup of grain to feed the animals, getting up close and personal with some 300 animals. Guests may also visit our Small Animal Adventure where they walk among the smaller, friendly animals. All together, Hidden Valley is home to over 400 animals representing 40 species from around the world.

Hans unexpectedly passed in July 2016, but his dream and legacy carry on. What started out as a hobby, is now being shared with thousands, including not just park guests, but school and group tours, wedding parties, corporate banquets, snowmobilers, diners and many more.

The adventure is closer than you think!

Escape the ordinary and take a ride on the wild side at Hidden Valley Animal Adventure. Get up close and personal with some of the world’s most exotic animals in a breathtaking setting. It’s an experience you won’t soon forget.

The Glen Iris Inn is located in scenic Letchworth State Park, which was voted the No. 1 state park in the United States. The Middle Falls, which is the tallest of the three major waterfalls within the park, is located steps from the Glen Iris Inn, formerly the home of William Pryor Letchworth who donated the house along with the founding thousand acres that started Letchworth State Park.

Today, the Inn offers overnight accommodations ranging from Victorian style guestrooms and suites at the Inn, modern lodges and luxury townhouses at Pinewood, as well as fully appointed rental homes. Caroline’s Dining Room opens each year on Good Friday of Easter weekend, and serves breakfast, lunch and dinner daily through the fall season. During the peak season of fall, dining reservations are strongly recommended. Caroline’s also offers catering services for weddings, corporate meetings and picnics and family celebrations at the Inn and throughout Letchworth State Park.

“William P. Letchworth was looking for the perfect site for a country retreat where he could entertain his family and friends. One morning in the spring of 1858, he stepped off a train as it slowly approached a bridge high above the Genesee River. Standing on the bridge, he was touched by the natural beauty of the powerful river rushing below. Gazing at the falls, he noticed that the sun shining on the spray below formed a perfect rainbow.

“While walking along the left bank of the river, Letchworth found a large two-story frame house near the remains of the burned-out lumber mill. Owned by Michael Smith, the house had been built by Alva Palmer in 1828. The view was spectacular, and as he gazed toward the South overlooking the falls, he knew he had found his country retreat.

“Letchworth acquired the house in February 1859 and immediately began renovations. The local Indians had named the area ‘An-de-ka-ga-kwa,’ meaning ‘the place where the sun lingers,’ and it has been said through Indian lore that when the sun passes over the glen, it pauses a moment longer there than at any other part of the valley. Inspired by this, Letchworth chose the word ‘Iris,’ a synonym for ‘rainbow,’ and named his estate the Glen Iris.

“William Pryor Letchworth was born in 1832 to a Quaker family of high standing. As a humanitarian and historian, his desire was to have the Glen Iris, with its scenic grandeur, preserved in its natural state so future generations could enjoy the beauty so dear to his heart. Before his death on Dec. 12, 1910, he made provisions for the Glen Iris and surrounding property to be a gift to the people of New York State to be used as a permanent park.”
A message from the president

President and CEO
Wyoming County Chamber of Commerce and Tourism Office

The hope of warmer weather and the optimism that comes with it is something we are all looking forward to after a long winter season. At the Wyoming County Chamber of Commerce and Tourism office, we are excited about what the new year has brought and where we will be heading into 2018.

We ended 2017 with several winter ribbon cuttings and started the New Year out the same way. The community is always very pleased to welcome new business owners and thanks them for taking that big step forward. We are also moving ahead with the recently completed arts and cultural marketing plan for the County. With partners like the Arts Council for Wyoming County, we have much to offer visitors from performing arts to traditional galleries. The spring and summer season is one not to miss.

The organization also unveiled the newly redesigned 2018 Wyoming County visitor guide in February. It’s a fresh new look at all the great things to do in the county. We’ve updated the listings for everything from shops, restaurants and attractions — and you’ll find even more information on the website at GoWyomingCountyNY.com. Wyoming County racks up some impressive numbers when it comes to visitors who are coming to our area. If you would like a copy of the guide, please contact us and we can mail one to you — be sure to invite your friends.

We recently surveyed the business community of Wyoming County, and were encouraged by the responses and the hopefulness among many of our members. They reported healthy businesses, a sense of optimism and concerns at both the state and federal levels. Among the many areas of concern for the business community, the top four are health insurance costs, business taxes, finding qualified workers, and rising labor costs. Our business community also expressed deep concern with the difficulties facing the agriculture community. While there is “realistic optimism,” concerns also remain on the big issues facing our businesses and we will remain an active voice to support, promote and strengthen our community.

The Chamber and the Wyoming County IDA recently hosted a workforce development roundtable with agency providers to learn about workforce data and labor statistics effecting Wyoming County. We also heard about issues that these organizations and the people they serve are encountering on topics such as transportation, substance abuse, skills gaps, and employee recruitment. The next step in tackling the issue is to survey our local businesses to hear what their needs are and learn what difficulties they are experiencing in finding employees. The ultimate goal is to develop a tangible solution or series of steps to help address the problem. The work is ongoing and will continue through this year.

We are continuing new initiatives started last year like the successful “welcome program” for new residents and homebuyers moving into the County. The Chamber will also be adding a new “deals and discounts” program and employee customer service and hospitality-training program as we move forward into the year. These are great ways to welcome a new neighbors and let them know all that’s available to them right in their local community. For more information on any of these opportunities, please contact the Chamber. These are just a few of the positive things happening at the Chamber and Tourism office and more is yet to come as the year progresses.

Once again, thank you to all of the advertisers, chamber members, and readers of this publication. It’s packed full of news and information and we hope you find it useful and handy. And as always, be sure to support the local business community and shop local!
According to a study from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, housing is the greatest expense in dollar amount and as a share of total expenditures for households in which a person 55 and older is considered the primary owner or renter of the home. Total annual household expenditures, which were culled from the BLS’ 2014 Consumer Expenditure Survey, totaled just over $49,000. These expenditures included food, housing, clothing, transportation, health care, and entertainment, among other expenses. The BLS study found that housing accounted for nearly one-third of annual expenditures in households headed by people age 55 and older.
Three lucky individuals were selected on Tuesday, Feb. 13, 2018, as winners of the Chamber’s “Shop Wyoming and Win” annual Buy Local promotion. This year’s winners are: Eugene Esainko from Perry won the Char-Broil gas/charcoal grill donated by Ace Hardware of Attica and Warsaw; Zachary and Crystal Marsh from Castile won the Rocker Recliner donated by Harding’s Attica Furniture and Flooring in Attica; and Bob and Louise Irving from Perry won the $100 Wyoming County Visa Gift Card.

The Wyoming County Chamber & Tourism held the drawing at the Wyoming County Board of Supervisors regular February Meeting. As the most senior members of the Board, Town Supervisors Jerry Davis (Covington), Doug Berwanger (Arcade), and Ellen Grant (Bennington) drew the winning tickets.

“On behalf of the Chamber and the community, we extend congratulations to all the winners of this year’s “Shop Wyoming and Win” buy-local promotion. This year was another record breaker and we again exceeded local shopping revenue goals over last year,” said Chamber President Scott Gardner. “Thank you to the many local businesses who participated, and all the shoppers for making this event another success. Thank you especially to everyone who shopped locally this holiday season, placed a drop box in their business, or supported the program in some way.”

“The prizes are made possible with the strong support of two county businesses. We thank Ace Hardware of Attica and Warsaw for the generous donation of the Char-Broil gas grill, and sincerely thank Harding’s Attica Furniture and Flooring for donating the Rocker Recliner,” concluded Gardner. “These two businesses were generous participants and we hope that shoppers will stop in to support these outstanding local family run small businesses.”

time the Chamber has sponsored the holiday promotion as part of the Wyoming County Chamber of Commerce’s buy local program. After weeks of planning and delivering the entry boxes to 33 small businesses all over the county, the contest kicked off on “Black Friday” 2017.

Participants were required to save their receipts from purchases made in Wyoming County between “Black Friday,” Nov. 24, 2017 and Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, 2017. They then submitted the receipts by mail, in-person, or in drop boxes by the deadline of January 12, 2018. For every $50 worth of purchases made in Wyoming County, the participants were eligible for one entry in the drawing. Another record was set with 581 participants and total purchases at $460,473, up over last year.

Shoppers turned in sales receipts, which brought in estimated sales taxes of $36,838 during the 31-day promotion period.

Perry Veterinary Clinic named 2018 Agri-Business of Year

WARSAW — The Wyoming County Chamber & Tourism is pleased to announce that Perry Veterinary Clinic, 3180 Route 246, Perry, has been selected as the 2018 Agri-Business of the Year. The annual award was presented at the Pride of Agriculture Dinner on March 3.

“We are very pleased to give the Agri-Business Award to Perry Vet Clinic for its continued growth and service to Wyoming County and the larger regional community,” said Chamber President, Scott Gardner. “This business has continued to flourish since its earliest founding almost 100 hundred years ago. Perry Vet Clinic is an industry leader serving both the large and small animal populations. Even though they have continued to grow, they have never lost the personal touch and compassion for the clients and customers that they serve.”

The Perry Veterinary Clinic was established in 1919 as the Clark Veterinary Clinic by Dr. F.C. Clark, a graduate of the Veterinary College at Cornell University. Two other Cornell graduates, Drs. Norman Skinner and Walter Kreutter, joined the Clinic in the 1940s and 1950s, respectively. Both were instrumental in continuing Dr. Clark’s work and guiding the Clinic in its formative years. Dr. Allan Chamberlain, a graduate of the New York State Veterinary College, joined the Clinic and spearheaded its modernization in the 1960s. In the Clinic’s early years, the practice was located in Dr. Skinner’s garage on Covington Street. However, by 1971 the Clinic outgrew this site and moved to its current location on Route 246, and was renamed the Perry Veterinary Clinic.

The 1970s brought many changes to the nature of veterinary medicine and the new facility allowed the Clinic to respond proactively. The dairy industry was growing and changing from small herds of 30–50 cows to larger herds of 100 or more. The role of the dairy veterinarian evolved with advances in record keeping, sophisticated nutrition, artificial insemination and embryo transfer programs.

With new facilities in place for its small animal practice, the Clinic met the increasing expectations of local pet owners. Small animal medicine was changing rapidly to a sophisticated science as research defined new diseases and clarified older ones. This, in turn, led to more effective techniques and treatments. The information explosion had started. To address both dairy industry growth and the needs of small animal clients the Clinic added three partners, Drs. Paul Schneible, Leslie “Butch” DeGroff and George “Tony” Wiseley who retired in 2016.

The changes that began in the 1970s accelerated in the 1980s. Small animal veterinary medicine was revolutionized with the development of rapid “SNAP” tests for many communicable and deadly diseases such as parvo virus and feline leukemia. Vaccines were developed to help prevent these and other diseases. Therapeutic pet foods and discoveries in pet nutrition led to the virtual disappearance of certain eye and heart diseases.

Building on the advances begun in the early 1980s, the veterinary industry responded by developing improved equipment and technology. Work begun in the 1980’s led to blood examinations being performed “in house” to more completely assess patient needs. Clinic facilities were updated as significant improvements were made to cardiology and EKG equipment, as well as ultrasound technology. In response to continued expansion in both the farm and small animal markets, three additional partners joined the Clinic, Drs. Steve Stoddard, Dave Hale and Peter Hecht. The innovations in the 1980’s lay the groundwork for the rapid expansion of the 1990s.

In March 1990, the partnership opened the first satellite clinic, the Animal Care Facility of Livonia. The new clinic allowed the firm to better serve both the dairy clients in Livingston County and the growing suburban population’s pet needs. Later that year, Dr. Patrick Lynch merged his practice with the Perry Veterinary Clinic, making it the largest veterinary clinic in the region. In 1991, recognizing the increasing demand for small animal service, the first full-time small animal practitioner and partner was recruited, Dr. Karl Minster.

In 1996, in response to a continuing increase in demand for small animal services, as well as the need for the latest medicine and health-related products in the dairy industry, the partnership completely renovated the Perry facility. The clinic doubled in size, adding a modern treatment room, two surgical suites and full radiology capability for small animal patients. A large warehouse and retail store were added to accommodate the needs of farm clients.

In August 1997, the second satellite clinic in Yorkshire opened. This facility, like Livonia, recognized both the demand for small animal care and the expansion of the dairy industry. Three more doctors joined the practice as partners in the late 1990s, Drs. Craig Lamb, Ted Wolf and Scott DeGroff.

During the 1990s there were a number of advances in veterinary medicine that affected both large and small animal clients. Companion animals, previously known as “pets” became known as “patients,” and were considered by many to be a member of the family. In response, there was a shift in thinking from “giving them their shots” to providing comprehensive healthcare with greater emphasis on wellness care and advanced surgical techniques.

New equipment and technology continued to develop. There was a greater role played by the veterinarian who was dedicated to small animal medicine, more akin to a human doctor. Advances in care fostered the development of regional specialty practices in eye diseases, oncology, dermatology, and behavioral issues to which we were able to refer complex and unusual cases.

As the new century began, the Perry Veterinary Clinic and its satellite clinics were well positioned to serve the ever-changing needs of both companion animal and farm clients. The dairy industry benefited from the development of new medicines, as well as improvements in wellness and nutrition protocols. As unbelievable as it may have seemed in the 1970’s, some herds now exceeded 1,000 cows. Two additional partners, Drs. Michael Capel and Tom Wakefield, joined the practice as the Clinic stayed on the cutting edge of dairy medicine.

In 2005, Dr. Filippo Aiello, a companion animal practitioner at the Livonia facility, became a partner. Unfortunately, he died very suddenly shortly thereafter. In 2010 Dr. Paul Schneible, the senior partner, retired after a long career at Perry Vet, and the Yorkshire Clinic underwent an expansion and renovation.

In January 2011, Dr. Leo Vranich, a large animal vet, was admitted to the partnership. The geographic reach of the Large Animal Road Service continued to expand, serving clients in Niagara County eastward to Cayuga County. The Practice had been considering a fourth companion animal clinic, and after discussions with Dr. Ray Pray, purchased the Batavia Animal Hospital in September 2011. In December, Dr. Leslie (Butch) DeGroff, Senior Partner, semi-retired. Dr. DeGroff joined the practice in 1970 and is recognized in the dairy industry as a true veterinary leader being awarded the Excellence in Preventive Medicine Dairy Award by the American Association of Bovine Practitioners in 2004.

From 2013 to 2015, the Perry facility expanded adding a 7,500 square foot warehouse to better serve the product needs of its dairy producers. There was also extensive remodeling of the former warehouse to include offices and a conference area to accommodate the increased number of employees. The treatment room was also refurbished allowing better service to our small animal clients.

In January 2014, the practice added both a partner and a new look. Dr. Jessica Litteer, a companion animal associate at the Livonia Center location, was admitted as a partner in the firm. The practice also rebranded itself with a new company logo, consolidated the four companion animal clinics under the name Perry Pet with a corresponding new logo, and developed a new logo for the large animal service and retail portions of the business under the name Perry Vet.

As the family pet takes on a new role, becoming more of a member of the family, clinic services have evolved to meet the needs of both companion and farm clients. Perry Veterinary Clinic and its satellite clinics are well positioned to continue serving the needs of the dairy industry and providing comprehensive healthcare for both large and small animal clients.

In the beginning of January, the Chamber and Tourism office announced the release of the official 2018 Wyoming County Visitor Guide. This year’s guide features a cover photo by well-known Letchworth State Park enthusiast John Kucko, showing hot air balloons soaring through the Genesee River Gorge at Letchworth State Park. The cover shot once again beckons readers to visit the “Grand Canyon of the East” and all that Wyoming County has to offer.

The 2018 visitor guide has an exciting new layout that offers readers a fresh and engaging visual experience, while providing valuable information for people, especially the over 700,000 visitors to Letchworth State Park each year. The visitor guide is also linked to the Wyoming County Tourism website www.gowyomingcountyny.com which features an interactive and fully mobile platform, travel itineraries, events calendar, maps and business listings.

“We are thrilled with the 2018 visitor guide,“ said Director of Tourism & Marketing Eric Szucs. "This comprehensive piece is engaging, informative, and does a phenomenal job of depicting everything that makes Wyoming County a premiere tourism destination for visitors worldwide. It showcases Wyoming County’s many diverse tourism businesses, attractions and events. It tells our story – a great story – about how visitors will have adventures here that are unsurpassed by anything else in New York State."

“On behalf of the membership and Board of Directors, I would like to extend a special thanks to Eric Szucs for his hard work to deliver a great looking product for 2018,” said Chamber President Scott Gardner. “I would also like to thank all the businesses and advertisers in the guide, and the following who assisted their time and talent with the 2018 visitor guide: The Warsaw Penny Saver, for the design of the guide; John Kucko Photography, for the cover photo, and to community members for sending us beautiful pictures of the County as part of the ‘I Love Wyoming County Photography Contest’.”

A record 110,000 copies have been printed for distribution this year, and will be handed out at nationwide trade and travel shows, and sent to information centers and rest stops across New York, the Northeastern United States and Southeastern Canada. Visitor guides will also be available at the gates to Letchworth State Park and at local attractions, government offices, restaurants and retail locations throughout Wyoming County.

On Jan. 10, 2018, the Wyoming County Chamber of Commerce hosted the graduation ceremony for the 11th class of the Leadership Wyoming program at the Byrnciff Golf Resort and Banquets in Varysburg. Following remarks and a presentation by the graduates based on all the positive experiences and leadership qualities learned during the year, graduation certificates were presented in a brief ceremony. Since its inception in 2006, 180 individuals have graduated from the Leadership Wyoming Program.

“Everyone has the potential for leadership development and this program continues to provide a great opportunity for individuals to learn through a variety of experiences,” said Scott Gardner, President of the Chamber. “For eleven years, the Chamber has promoted the importance of growing citizens who are community minded and has equipped them to take on new leadership challenges in their personal and professional lives. The benefit to the county is tremendous, as these individuals set out to take on fulfilling projects and beneficial new ways to serve our community.”

The participants’ journey began in March with a two-day retreat where each person was put through a Meyers-Brigg profile; talked about the strengths and challenges of Wyoming County; and began to learn about themselves and their personality styles. This leadership component continues throughout the year as the class participates in discussions and group activities. The program also included exploring small businesses; touring local manufacturers; learning from the County’s economic development team; an up close and personal tour of one of Wyoming County’s most famous locations, Attica Correctional Facility; checking out the unique technologies found on local farms; and taking time to be tourists by exploring all of Wyoming County’s tourism destinations. The class also attended a monthly committee meeting of the Wyoming County Board of Supervisors. Classes were given the opportunity to speak to various town supervisors during county government and criminal justice day, and witnessed the county’s legislative body in action.

“We are very proud of the very diverse individuals that have taken part in the Leadership program over the years and this class is no exception. It is always exciting to listen in on their conversations and participate with them throughout the process. They have gone on a yearlong journey of personal and professional discovery, and we look forward to seeing how they use their new skills,” said Kelly Ashcraft, program coordinator and Chamber director of member services.

This year’s class included: Lynnell Schreiber, Wyoming County Mental Health Department; Bridget Givens, Wyoming County Community Health Systems; Barbara Ferris, Tompkins Bank of Castile; Aimee Rader, RTS Wyoming; Hillary Crane, Five Star Bank; Erin Pataye, Partners for Prevention; Pilar McKay, Arts Council for Wyoming County; Jen Monteleone, Pioneer Credit Recovery; Ashley Schumaker, Pioneer Credit Recovery; Megan Burley, Burley Berries and Blooms; Daryl DeGroff, Morton Salt; Ella Boxler, Hidden Valley Animal Adventure.

The Chamber will not be holding a Leadership Wyoming Class this year. Instead, the program will be re-tooled and updated with new schedules, programming, and curriculums for students in 2019. For more information, contact the Chamber at (585) 786-0307.

Why should you join the Chamber of Commerce?
Here are the top 10 reasons

1. Membership brings credibility to your business. You can increase positive perception among consumers and business owners when you’re identified as a member of a chamber of commerce. According to a research study by The Shapiro Group, Inc. and Market Street Services, when consumers know that a small business is a member of the chamber of commerce, they are 44 percent more likely to think favorably of it, a 51 percent increase in consumer awareness, a 57 percent increase in its local reputation and a 63 percent increase in the likelihood that consumers will patronize the business in the future.

2. Increase your visibility in the community. As a member, you will be listed in the Chamber’s annual Business Directory, which is distributed to more than 20,000 homes and businesses throughout Wyoming County. And as an added bonus, if you are a tourism related business, you will also be listed in the Wyoming County Travel Guide. Your membership also includes your business being listed on the Chamber’s website which receives thousands of inquiries and referrals every year. Sponsoring major Chamber events can help get your name out in the community and bring recognition to your organization. If you are a new or expanding business, the chamber may also promote your grand opening/ribbon-cutting ceremony and assist with any public relations efforts.

3. Create networking opportunities. Chambers have committees and serving on one of them provides networking opportunities as well as professional leadership development. We also host events where businesses can meet and make greater connections.

4. Gain a voice in government. The Chamber takes on the tough issues and opposes new regulations, taxes, fees, assessments and costs directed at small businesses and supports legislation that is pro-business. Direct links to both our local, as well as, State and National government helps us advocate for our businesses.

5. Make business contacts. The Chamber’s mission is to generate more business activity for the community. While some is out in front leading the way, much of our work is behind the scenes working with economic development leaders locally and regionally. The chamber initiates more business-to-business commerce and more opportunities for networking and connecting local professionals than is available through most other local organizations.

6. Receive chamber news. Our new format for our newsletter provides new member information, interesting information about operating a local business, articles about the local community, a community calendar and details about up-and-coming chamber events, among other things. Low cost advertising is also available for member businesses. We also send e-news items that are member only and provide added value.

7. Acquire customer referrals. Every day, your local chamber receives calls from individuals and businesses looking for potential vendors, and chamber members typically recommend other chamber members. Our website also allows for direct referrals, connecting the consumer with the member business directly by email.

8. Chamber events and programs. Chamber events and programs provide members with great opportunities to get to know new people and expand their prospect base. Chamber events are innovative and fun ways to help members meet potential customers, clients and vendors—and generate new business leads. Educational seminars also keep local businesses owners and their employees up to date on the most pressing business items.

9. Promotion and publicity. With a chamber membership, you can reach potential clients through member exclusive advertising and opportunities for business-to-business advertising and publicity. Our new and improved Member-to-Member program allows special offers available to only member businesses.

10. Access to members-only programs. We are always watching your bottom line with our affinity programs. They include Constant Contact (an e-new subscription that makes professional looking emails quick and easy), Staples Advantage office supply program, New Wave Energy (discounts on electricity), National Fuel Resources (natural gas discount program), discounted AAA membership and others. We are always on the lookout for new programs that will help our member businesses.

WARSAW — The Arts Council for Wyoming County, with the sponsorship of Tompkins Bank of Castile and the Wyoming Foundation, presents Galumpha at the Warsaw Central High School auditorium on Saturday, April 14.
Combining stunning acrobatics, striking visual effects, physical comedy and inventive choreography, Galumpha brings to life a world of imagination, beauty, muscle and merriment. The three performers create a sensory feast of images ranging from the ridiculous to the sublime, drawn together into a seamless whole, consistently bringing audiences to their feet. Galumpha is a triumphant mix of art and entertainment, offering world-class, award-winning choreography (Edinburgh Festival Critics’ Choice Award, Moers International Comedy Arts Prize) that is equally at home on the concert stage, at a comedy club or at an outdoor festival.
Formed in 2002 by Andy Horowitz and Greg O'Brien, Galumpha delivers a fast-paced, athletic brand of movement, distinctive for its ingenuity. Highlights include “Velcro,” as seen on “The Late Show with David Letterman,” “Crook and Chase” (TNN), and the 2002 MDA Jerry Lewis Telethon; and “Clackers,” seen on MTV, Showtime, A & E, Just for Laughs in Montreal, and by over one billion television viewers around the globe.
Other pieces feature experiments in human architecture set to music by Rachmaninov, Mahler, and the virtuoso Czech band Jablkon, making for an exceptionally entertaining program. “Their strength, agility, and underlying grace...is unflagging and amazing,” says the San Francisco Chronicle.
Free tickets (donation accepted at the door) for this event may be picked up at the ACWC or any Bank of Castile in Wyoming County or Batavia. The performance starts at 7 p.m. Doors open at 6:30. The Warsaw High School is located at 81 W. Court St.

Wyoming — The Arts Council for Wyoming County is thrilled to welcome Publick Musick back to Wyoming County for a 2 p.m. concert on Sunday, April 29 at the First Presbyterian Church, 5 North Academy St. A special feature at this concert will be the presentation of the ACWC’s 2018 Patron of the Arts Award to Sandy Pirdy of Creekside Fabrics in Arcade.

Period-instrument ensemble Publick Musick will perform two of Mozart’s greatest masterpieces for chamber ensemble: the String Quintets in C major K. 515, and Eb major K. 614. The ensemble consists of: Cynthia Roberts, violin; Boel Gidholm, violin; Daniel Elyar, viola; Alissa Smith, viola; and Christopher Haritatos, cello.

Founded in 1995, and under the artistic leadership of violinist Boel Gidholm and cellist Christopher Haritatos since 2011, Publick Musick is a Rochester-based period-instrument ensemble that enriches the cultural landscape of Western New York by producing and presenting vibrant, historically informed performances of music from the 17th and 18th centuries and beyond. In their informal and engaging concerts, they perform well-known masterpieces, as well as sharing with audiences the excitement of discovering and bringing to life unknown gems from the past. Their performers are nationally and internationally renowned Early Music professionals both from the local area and from further afield. One of the guest artists to be featured at the concert will be Cynthia Roberts.

Among her many accomplishments, Roberts is one of America’s leading baroque violinists, and has appeared as soloist, leader, and recitalist throughout North America, Europe, and Asia. She has served as concertmaster of the New York Collegium, Apollo’s Fire, Concert Royal, and Les Arts Florissants. She performs regularly with Trinity Baroque Orchestra, Tafelmusik, and the American Bach Soloists and is a principal player with the Carmel Bach Festival. She has appeared with the London Classical Players, Taverner Players, Clarion Music Society, American Bach Soloists and Smithsonian Chamber Players. Her playing was featured on the soundtrack of the film Casanova and she has performed live on the Late Show with David Letterman.

For more information about Publick Musick, visit PublickMusick.org. Publick Musick concerts are made possible by generous donors, the Governor’s Arts Fund at the Rochester Area Community Foundation, the Max & Marian Farash Charitable Foundation, and by the New York State Council on the Arts with the support of Governor Andrew Cuomo and the New York State Legislature. This project is supported in part by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Organizations host seventh annual Wyoming County Job Fair

On Friday, March 16, 2018, the Wyoming County Chamber & Tourism office, Community Action for Wyoming County, Genesee Community College, the NYS Department of Labor, Senator Patrick Gallivan, and the Wyoming County YMCA, partnered to coordinate the seventh annual Wyoming County Job Fair at the Wyoming County YMCA & Genesee Community College Warsaw Campus.

Thirty-five area businesses and organizations were present to attract job seekers at the six-hour event. Nearly 150 job seekers visited with employers and took the opportunity to also take free classes and brush up on resume writing, interview techniques, and other soft skills. In some cases, interviews took place on right on-site, as connections were made by companies and potential employees.

There were a wide variety of jobs available at all skill levels from very basic to technical.

“Matching job seekers with employers is critically important, as we look for ways to serve the business community and offer solutions. Workforce development is one of our top priorities, and this was an important event to help make these connections. Thank you to both the businesses for setting up a table, and for the job seekers for coming out to learn about job opportunities,” said Scott Gardner, Chamber president.

“We were very pleased with the job seekers this year, as they were serious about their visit and were well prepared,” said Beth Catton, Senior Coordinator of the Employment and Training Division at Community Action. “We always encourage job seekers to bring their resume, be enthusiastic, ask questions, take notes, dress appropriately and thank the business representative for their time.”

The Wyoming County Job Fair, held each year at the Wyoming County YMCA and Genesee Community College Warsaw Campus, brings dozens of employers and hundreds of job seekers together in one place.

These 2018 Top 10 Most Romantic Inns, chosen by iLoveInns.com after extensive research and nominations from inn guests and staff, provide the world-class hospitality, personalized touch and loving environment that dreams are made of.

There are more than 10,000 inns in iLoveInns.com online guides, so throughout the year their staff keeps an eye out for candidates. In our research for romantic inns, in addition to talking to hundreds of guests, we read thousands and thousands of reviews. We felt the joy in their statements such as, ‘We left feeling rejuvenated and happier than ever to be married to each other!‘ and ‘We plan to return every year and think of it as our happy place,’ or ‘Life’s tensions melted away in this glorious setting.”

Executives from the Kauffman Foundation, creators of the entrepreneurship program FastTrac New Venture, flew in from Kansas City on March 20, 2018 to learn first-hand why the Wyoming County Business Center, Inc. has such high success rate of new business startups from those who graduate from the program offered here.

Over a period of seven years that the program has been offered in the county, 67 businesses have started and have created 112 jobs. That equates to approximately 50 percent of the graduates of the FastTrac New Venture Program starting new businesses.

This the first time that Kauffman Foundation executives have visited in person any of their affiliates in the United States.

“Kim McGrew and Lauren Aleshire from the Kauffman Foundation reached out to the Wyoming County Business Center about a month ago and asked if they could come for visit and talk with some of the FastTrac graduates, learn from our experienced Program Facilitators, Jeff and Mike Fitch and observe the first night of the new class that started on the day they visited. We were extremely excited that they had selected us to be a first stop on their new outreach efforts,” said Program Director Jim Pierce. He added that “on behalf of our Board of Directors and staff of Jennifer Tyczka and Robin Marischilok we are very proud of our program and our graduates. The program is very effective in the implementation of one of our economic development strategies to encourage and support entrepreneurship.”

The Kauffman visitors toured and met with FastTrac graduates Gary and Betty Burley, owners of East Hill Creamery in Perry and sampled some of their artisan cheeses. They also met with Brian and Amanda Burnison, owners of MB Maple in Attica and Darren and Bernice Fuller owners of Middle Falls Contracting, LLC in Castile to hear first-hand accounts how the FastTrac Program assisted them with starting their businesses. The experience resulted in them learning about issues and barriers that face entrepreneurs in rural communities and how they can enhance the success of the program. In addition they are making plans to share the success stories of the graduates with other affiliates and programs across the country.

Jim Pierce said “that the folks from Kauffman Foundation were very impressed with all aspects of their visit. There was one remark made by Kim McGrew that really hit home when she said “you have something magical going on here” and you know she is right.” The visitors are making plans to return for last class and presentations of the graduate’s business plan to see how far they have come.

To learn more about the FastTrac New Venture program or to register for the fall class starting in September, please contact Jennifer Tyczka, Program Manager at the Wyoming County Business Center at (585) 786-3764 or by email at jtyczka@wycoida.org.

PERRY — Josh Rice has been part of the Wyoming County arts community since 2012’s launch of Shake on the Lake, Silver Lake’s resident Shakespeare company. A professional theatre artist, Rice started SOTL the summer before he began his MFA at Sarah Lawrence College. At Sarah Lawrence, he studied puppetry, an art form that has taken him around the world. Now, puppetry is coming to Perry.

The New York State Puppet Festival will be the first of its kind in the state – a gathering of game-changing, internationally renowned puppet artists and masters to perform their works and discuss emerging topics in the art form. The festival will take place from June 14 to 24, 2018.

Puppet festivals take place all over the world – Rice has performed in many of them – and he decided that, once again, Wyoming County was the place to start his own project.

Many cultures have developed their own puppet arts traditions. In the U.S.

Koryu Nishikawa V, National Intangible Folk Treasure of Japan, is headlining the New York State Puppet Festival launching in Wyoming County.

we watched the Muppets, may have fashioned our own shadow puppets with a flashlight, or glued googly eyes on a sock. Today, puppeteering is flourishing with the collaborations of artists from around the world to share their art form to each other. The artists that Josh has brought together exemplify this global story, while also highlighting artists who are challenging the media to tell new stories.

Artists coming to the inaugural festival include:
- Concrete Temple Theatre to present the internally-acclaimed family show: Gepeto: Extraordinary Extremities
- Sam Gold to present his brand new Czech-marionette and Balinese shadow-inspired piece, War with Newts
- Dan Hurlin will screen his documentary Puppet with a panel discussion featuring Dan, the film’s director David Soll, and the Jim Henson Foundation’s Manager Z Briggs.
- Tom Lee and Lisa Gonzales will premiere their dance/puppetry hybrid piece Place (No Place)
- Josh Rice will present his original puppet piece The Marooned
- Fifth-generation traditional Japanese master puppeteer of Hachioji Kuruma Ningyo Theater, and designated National Intangible Folk Treasure of Japan, Koryu Nishikawa V, will headline the festival and give workshops in traditional cart puppetry (kuruma ningyo) and 3-person manipulation technique (sanninzukai), as well as performing traditional kuruma ningyo performances, including the Sanbaso.

Look out for more pieces from emerging artists to be announced this spring. The festival is not merely one of performances, as many artists will also be teaching workshops on puppeteering. Outreach and education are a large element of this project part of a lofty but achievable goal to make Wyoming County a new center of puppeteering in the state. Josh’s goal is to present this festival biennially.

This project is made possible with the funds from the Decentralization Program, a regrant program of the New York State Council on the Arts with the support of Governor Andrew Cuomo and the New York State Legislature and administered by the Arts Council for Wyoming County. Perry Main Street Association sponsoring the inaugural year. If you would like more information on the New York State Puppet Festival, please visit www.newyorkstatepuppetfestival.org.
The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), Buffalo District Office services the eight counties that surround Buffalo and the six counties that surround Rochester. The GLOW region is an important part of the area that is serviced. SBA has been providing training, education, connection and mentoring to businesses in the GLOW region through your local Chambers of Commerce and IDAs for years.

This year, on July 25 at the Batavia Veterans Administration, the SBA, Chambers of Commerce and IDAs in Genesee, Livingston, Orleans and Wyoming Counties will host a GLOW Matchmaker. The program is designed to match small businesses in the GLOW region with larger businesses and government agencies, which helps to keep contract dollars in our local communities.

Small Businesses will get 10-minute meetings with the buyers from the larger organizations and government agencies, giving small business the opportunity to make multiple sales calls in a couple of hours and not leave the room.

Matchmaking is just one of the SBA Buffalo District’s initiatives for supporting procurement opportunities for local small businesses. This unique event provides Small Businesses with the opportunity to have face-to-face contact with buyers from government agencies, as well as with buyers from other large organizations in the GLOW Region. Our mission is two-fold; to connect small businesses with government agencies and prime contractors and to assist agencies and primes in fulfilling their procurement goals.

The intent is to make the program free of charge, the details are still being arranged, so please stay tuned. Program date is Wednesday, July 25 from 9 a.m. to noon at the Batavia VA.

If you would like to register as a buyer or for more information on how to participate, contact Jennifer Talarico at (716) 551-3240 or Jennifer.Talarico@sba.gov.
